1 The Manual

1.1 Introduction

The Promotion of Access to Information Act, 2000 [Act No. 2 of 2000] (“the Act”), which came into effect on 9 March 2001, seeks to advance the values of transparency and accountability in South Africa.

The 1996 South African Constitution, by providing a statutory right of access on request to any record held by the state as well as access to records held by private bodies, entrenches the fundamental right to information.

The Act establishes the following statutory rights of requestors to any record of a private body if the following circumstances are met:

- if the record is required for the exercise or protection of any of his or her legal rights;
- the requestor complies with all the procedural requirements; and
- the access is not refused in terms of any ground referred to in the Act.

Section 51 of the Act obliges private bodies to compile a manual. The purpose of the manual is to assist an individual to obtain access to the records of a private body and the Act stipulates the minimum requirements with which a manual has to comply.

1.2 Scope

This manual (“the Manual”) has been prepared by the South African Nursing Council, a statutory body established by the Nursing Act, 1978 (Act No. 50 of 1978). It is published in accordance with the requirements of section 51 of the Promotion of Access to Information Act, 2000 and is aimed at facilitating access to records held by the South African Nursing Council in terms of the Nursing Act, 1978.

Specifically, the Manual provides information on:

- The contact details of the information officer, who will deal with a person’s request;
- The structure and functions of the South African Nursing Council;
- The subjects and categories of records that are held by the South African Nursing Council;
- Records that are automatically available, without a person having to request access;
- Records that are available in terms of any other legislation; and
- The procedure that needs to be followed to obtain access to a record.
